Performing in the harshest conditions is just daily routine for the COBRA® QUICK RELEASE buckles. Used in a vast array of environments, systems and applications, it must be ready to meet the toughest requirements.

The AUSTRIALPIN research division has developed a new and fully automated method of surface coating. This innovation performs to the toughest requirements, offers exceptional wear, and is highly durable. The resistant, matte finished surface is especially fitting for the tactical and safety products. It is consistent, true to color, and highly homogeneous. 100% In-House Production. Safety Made in Austria.

Serial production commences Q4, 2018.
