

SABRE Offers Safety at a Distance with Pepper Spray Launchers for Home and Law Enforcement

CHICAGO, Jan. 11, 2021 -- SABRE, the number one pepper spray trusted by police and consumers worldwide has made available its family of Home and Law Enforcement Pepper Spray Launchers providing an enhanced level of personal safety at a distance.

According to a recent A&U study, 86 percent of consumers want their personal safety device to provide protection at a distance. While traditional pepper sprays and pepper gels provide great protection, the SABRE Home Defense Pepper Spray Launcher Kit is the ideal solution for homeowners providing up to 150 additional feet of protection. Accurate up to 66 feet (20 meters), this Launcher has an impact range of up to 175 feet (53 meters). With a magazine that deploys up to 7 rounds of pepper projectiles that saturates the area with a 6' (2 m) diameter red pepper powder cloud, helps deter intruders even for those who are not the best shot and increases the opportunity to escape to safety.

The Law Enforcement Tactical Launchers were designed with first responders in mind providing a multi-sensory tool capable of managing multiple suspects and inmates safely at a distance. With the same long-range capabilities as the civilian version, the Tactical Launchers have the capacity to deploy up to 7 projectiles using the standard magazine, and up to 200 projectiles with the air-driven hopper feed.

The audible firing noise and additional distance, coupled with the intense pain caused by the projectile traveling at 330 feet per second and impact distress brought on by the pepper cloud, the family of SABRE Pepper Spray Launchers increase the opportunity for safety at a distance both at home and in the field.

"As the leader in personal defense for civilians and law enforcement around the world, SABRE takes pride in bringing innovative, cutting-edge personal & law enforcement safety products to SHOT Show year after year," said SABRE CEO David Nance. " With a form factor designed for speed, accuracy, distance, increased incapacitation and multiple threats, the new SABRE Pepper Spray Launchers take safety to the next level!"
